Tribal Courts and Native American Governance

Donnerstag, 20. Dezember 2012

16:00-18:00, Fakultätssaal (Philosophicum)

Stacy Leeds serves as Dean and Professor of Law at the University of Arkansas School of Law in Fayetteville, Arkansas. She teaches, writes and consults in the areas American Indian law, property, energy and natural resources, economic development, judicial administration and higher education.

In November 2011, Dean Leeds was appointed to serve a two-year term on the National Commission on Indian Trust Administration and Reform within the U.S. Department of the Interior. The commission will undertake a forward-looking, comprehensive evaluation of Interior's trust management of nearly $4 billion in Native American trust funds.

Leeds is a citizen of the Cherokee Nation and a former Justice on the Cherokee Nation Supreme Court. She divides her time between downtown Fayetteville and the Illinois River near Tahlequah, Oklahoma.

Alle Interessierten sind herzlich willkommen!
